Curriculum Drivers

Inspired

Aim: YGPS children will feel inspired by the events, individuals and stories that they hear during their units of work. Children will grow ever resilient and better themselves by learning of the barriers that people have overcome in the past and those experienced by people today.

EYFS

• YGPS children will role-play and listen to stories that have inspirational characters in. Practitioners will share their experiences and feelings about finding things hard and how they overcome them. Children will be encouraged to become resilient and understand what 'working hard' looks like and feels like. They will have an increasingly positive relationship with this.

KS1

• YGPS children will learn about influential people and events throughout their curriculum. They will start to understand how people in the past have had to overcome barriers. They see and hear of events throughout the year that show that no human is limited. They are afforded greater independence and encouraged to 'just go for it' and know that if they get things wrong then they will be supported in getting it right.

LKS2

• YGPS children will learn about a greater range of significant individuals from the past that have changed the world that we live in today. They understand how important those individuals were and are awe-struck by the impact they had. Learning from the failure of others, and their own, is now a habit, as is learning from those who experienced great success.

UKS2

• YGPS children experience things that make them passionate to know more. They seek inspiration from books that they have read, significant individuals they have learnt about and current celebrated achievements worldwide. They understand their shortcomings and embrace them as something to work on. They can relate their experiences to others and make better choices because of that.
